BUILDING PERMITS OVER FIVE MILLION MARK, OCTOBER BIGGEST MONTH

Total for Year Expected to Put Figures Considerably Over One Hundred Thousand Beyond Five Millions With Two Days to Go

JANUARY WAS LIGHTEST MONTH IN YEAR

Industrial Buildings Reach Over $800,000, Seventy-six Per Cent of Buildings During 12 Months Were Home Buildings, Balance Business

As predicted by the Glendale Daily Press several months ago, Glendale went over the top today in the matter of building permits. The $5,000,000 mark was reached at an early hour this morning and before 10 o'clock passed that figure by several thousand dollars.

According to a summary of the year's activities in building up to 10 a. m. today, the month of January, with a total of $143,783 was the lightest month, while October was the largest with a total of $716,780. The total for the year up to date is $5,055,576 and there is a day and a half remaining before the year ends.

The summary of the year's activities in Building Inspector Marek's office shows that the valuation of industrial, business and public buildings totalled $846,540 and the valuation for apartment houses was $190,000. There was a total of 2335 permits issued during the year.

The percentage of homes built in Glendale during the year reached 76 2-3 per cent. The remainder of the permits issued were for business, industrial and public buildings.

Homes built during the year show four and five room dwellings prevail. There were 445 five-room buildings erected and 423 four-room dwellings built.

Altogether the year 1921 has proven to be a banner year in the growth of Glendale and places it safely at the top of the list of cities in California and the nation as the fastest growing city known.

In proportion to the size of the city, Glendale has shown more progress than a hundred thousand population and from all indications the approaching year will be another banner building year.

COOLNESS FOLLOWS EXODUS OF RAIN IN THIS REGION

Fair Tonight and Saturday, Furs to Be More Popular

WEATHER FORECAST
Los Angeles and Vicinity—Fair tonight and Saturday. Cooler tonight.

The great indoor sport of diving down into the mothballs to get furs, heavy "unmentionables" and things like that, will begin its winter campaign this evening. The man in the weather office says it is going to be cooler tonight. He probably saw some red-noses on his way down this morning, but red-noses are not necessarily an indication of cold weather. In the past it was not easy to determine weather conditions by red-noses, but it is more of an achievement now.

Weather promises to be fair also. There is every indication of that because it is not raining. When it isn't raining, it is always fair. Fair weather promises to usher in the New Year at midnight tomorrow night, and March promises to be more or less blustering, followed by showers in April. Almanacs are agreed that there will be rain in April.

If you have not retained any furs and other warming garments, now is the time to begin to get ready to commence to make a noise like a shopper for heavy precipitation (commonly known as rain) is always followed either by a cold spell or a warm spell. Nothing more definite than that can be given the public by the Glendale Press weather man, who studied and graduated in weather observations from a correspondence school of high standing—it is situated on the top of a hill close to a valley.

PUBLIC HEALTH MUCH IMPROVED

Health Officials See Better Things With Reappearance of Sun

Old Sol, shining forth in all his glory today, is a great help in combatting diphtheria and scarlet fever, according to officials of the Glendale city health department. The situation in these two diseases is well in hand. The number of diphtheria cases reported to the department is decreasing every day and scarlet fever cases have practically disappeared. An official of the department stated that there are more cases of contagious diseases being released from quarantine than are being placed in quarantine.

The recent rain created several near cases of diphtheria that, had the damp, wet weather continued, would in all probability have developed into severe cases. The cessation of the rain and reappearance of the sun has ended the danger of these colds developing into anything more serious.

SENATOR WATSON CHARGES SEEM TO BE FOUNDED

More Ex-Service Men Tell of Alleged Murder in Army

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Charges that soldiers were illegally hanged, shot by officers, and brutally treated during the war continued to pile up today before the senate committee investigating Senator Tom Watson's sensational charges.

Every mail brings Watson letters and telegrams from war veterans in all parts of the country, who declare they have evidence to prove his charges. He is turning them over to the committee and asking that the men be summoned.

George D. Glazebrook, an enlisted man in the navy, aboard the U. S. S. Merrine at San Diego, Calif., wrote Watson today that he witnessed the illegal hanging of two negro soldiers at Bazooches, France, in the spring of 1919 and asked a chance "to bring the guilty ones to justice."

"I can say with a true heart and clear conscience that these two negroes were hanged without trial and with the uniform of the United States army on," said Glazebrook. "I talked to both of them and they told me that they were going to be hanged the next morning. Up to the time I talked to them I knew they were not guilty."

Glazebrook said he could not remember the exact date of the hangings but gave the names of "Lieutenant Lazelle of Montana and Dr. Perkins, a captain in the medical corps" as two officers who were present.

Charges against Major H. L. Opie of Staunton, Va., who has been accused of shooting men of his command, continued to come in.

Levi P. Bell of Purcellville, Va., a former private in Company I. 166th infantry, wrote that Henry L. Scott, Akron, O., who made the original charges against Opie "absolutely told the truth."

"I with several others saw the same thing he did but were not in position to say anything for we would have gotten the same thing he did," said Bell.

L. C. Mason of Davenport, Iowa, wired Watson that he saw two negro soldiers hanged in camp at St. Nazaire, France, without "a fair trial, if they had any trial at all."

St. Nazaire is not one of the places at which the war department records show that any of the eleven soldiers legally executed during the war were hanged, Watson said.

RAIL STRIKE

BERLIN, Dec. 30. — A general strike loomed here today as the allies in France began negotiations for the economic rehabilitation of Germany. The railway union began a walkout which will tie up the entire Rheinish district and sympathy walkouts are expected to be called immediately.

COSTLY BLAZE

QUINCY, Mass., Dec. 30.—Four persons were reported injured and seven buildings were destroyed or partially damaged in a fire in the heart of business district here today. Help was called from Boston. Early estimates placed the damage at $200,000.

Dr. Crane Puts Out An Argument Against Free Use of the Gun

Because he had a gun!

Dr. Frank Crane takes this as a subject for discussion in column today. He cites the case of a man who committed murder because he had a gun. "A gun means death," reasons Dr. Crane, "and it is little short of ludicrous, if it were not so tragic, that while it is criminal to own an instrument of death anyone can walk into a store and buy one in perfect freedom."

You will find on the editorial page of this paper tonight quotations from utterances of Hearst, screams of anguish from his papers that are dealt with in the manner in which they should be. Read that editorial, it may open your eyes.

Henry James in his column commenting on the news of the day touches on many subjects and he refers to the first words spoken by Debs upon his release.

James W. Foley in "The Listening Post" tonight has a New Year's sentiment to offer. He says he doesn't want all the joy in the world, he wants work and strength and certainly after reading what he has to say you will agree with him.

HERBERT WILSON CAREER IS TOLD

Was Minister But Gave Up Pulpit Leaving Debts

BROWNSVILLE, Ore., Dec. 30.—Herbert Wilson, held in Los Angeles as the alleged ringleader of a gang of international crooks, came to Brownsville from Canada in 1914 to fill a vacancy in the Baptist church pulpit, it was recalled here today.

He served in that capacity until 1915, when he disappeared and was alleged to have left some $200 in unpaid bills, which members of his congregation paid. Wilson held the Baptist pastorate from June 26, 1914, to January 25, 1915. He was ordained here and before taking the local pastorate was engaged in evangelical work throughout Oregon. He resigned here because of professed dissatisfaction with the work.

Rev. and Mrs. Wilson came from London, Canada, and on leaving said they would return to Canada and then go to Los Angeles. A short time later W. P. Elmore of Brownsville received a letter from a California detective agency asking for references for Wilson, who was trying to obtain employment as a detective.

Vote On High School Site Brings Annexation Nearer

BY JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

The marriage of Eagle Rock to Glendale has been brought nearer by the vote on the union high school site. Of the two sites there was little choice as to location so far as Glendale was concerned and the overwhelming local vote in favor of the east side location may be considered in the light of a love token to the beautiful little town at the east portal of this city.

John H. Gerrie

Even many residents with families at or approaching high school age, to whom the west side plot would have been the more convenient, waived their personal preferences out of respect to the wishes of Eagle Rock and the claims of the district to be served by the Glendale institution. In this a fine spirit of unselfishness was mingled with high regard for the neighboring community.

All of which augurs well for a closer union between the two communities. In this delicate subject there is evidence of deference on one side and coyness on the other. The proud young Mr. Glendale fears to court a refusal and the bashful Miss Eagle Rock trembles lest she be mistaken for a flirt if she smiles before the question is popped.

But the two gradually are getting nearer together on the old-fashioned sofa of circumstances. The fact that a big fat man already is casting yearning looks from a nearby rocking chair impels the bashful young lady to sidle as much as her modesty permits toward the more favored suitor. The fat man is ready to "pop," but the proud youth hesitates because he is not sure what the answer will be and little Miss Modesty studies the pattern in the carpet.

This is the interesting situation in which the vote of yesterday may hasten the glad climax. "In place of roses I have brought thee a school" might aptly be the love message of the anxious swain. "Thy gift is as noble as thy self, whom I admire above all others" might be the maiden's classical reply. Then turning the wedding bells would be in order. That's the high-brow picture.

But changing the record and coming down to muddy earth: The problem of the frog confronts Eagle Rock. To be a big frog in a little puddle and stir up half the mud or be a little frog in a big puddle and stir up only an atom of the mud—that is the question.

Eagle Rock is welcome to the Los Angeles puddle but so many frogs already are stirring up mud in that puddle that one more frog would be lost in the goo. But right beside Eagle Rock is a nice clean puddle and if she chooses to jump she may remain a big frog and get just as wet as if she had been obliterated in the crowded pool. That's the low-brow picture.

Inevitably Eagle Rock is moving toward one or the other. Her interests are identical with those of Glendale. The two have their high school together and for the purposes of efficiency, economy and protection might also have their administrative offices in union, their park and boulevard and sewage systems together, their telephone and light and police problems in common. In a merger Glendale would gain a little in population and a little in needed territory for expansion; Eagle Rock would become a considerable part of a fast growing community without entirely losing her identity and would be entitled to all the improvements, benefits and enonomies of the enlarged city.

This is a subject on which business and political leaders of the two communities naturally decline to talk for publication lest their motives be misinterpreted. But after sounding a score or more residents of each city in confidence their views may be consolidated and epitomized as follows:

Eagle Rock: "We like Glendale; the interests of the two cities are identical; eventually they will be joined."

Glendale: "We like Eagle Rock; then ditto."

Eventually—WHY NOT NOW?

This gives Riverside an outlet to Los Angeles by way of Wineville, Ontario and the Valley boulevard.

ILLEGAL USE OF SUBS DISCUSSED

Believed All Powers Will Agree to Plan of Limitation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Ten thousand tons as the limit for cruisers was agreed upon by the naval disarmament committee today. This decision, amounting to elimination of competition in cruiser construction, is subject only for approval from Paris—an approval which is expected shortly.

The session was concerned mainly with discussions of the proposal to make illegal any use of submarines against merchantmen. The British amendment making the new rule applicable immediately to the five great powers was debated extensively, with the result that France, Italy and Japan asked their governments for instructions.

No serious objection to the proposal was raised by the conferees and an American delegate predicted the home governments will adhere to the proposal.

JAPAN HOME-LAND WILL NOT BE IN PACIFIC PACT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The home-land of Japan will be excluded from the application of the four-power Pacific treaty, according to an authoritative statement here today. Already Secretary of State Hughes and Baron Shidehara, the Japanese ambassador, are said to have reached an informal understanding that the island constituting Japan proper be not included within the terms of the Pacific pact.

The interpretation of the negotiators of the treaty that it included the home-land of Japan has threatened to be an objection to the pact that might cause its defeat. The effort to secure a reinterpretation of the treaty to exclude the home-land of Japan was started by the Japanese delegates here, acting on instructions from the Tokio government.

TURNS DOWN PLAN

ST. PAUL, Dec. 30.—St. Paul turned down a chance to return to the aldermanic form of government at a special election yesterday. Only two wards gave the new proposed city charter majorities. The vote was 21,549 against the new charter and 16,123 for it. To pass, the proposition needed 60 per cent of the votes cast.

HIGH SCHOOL BONDS CARRY BY TREMENDOUS MAJORITY, LUKENS SITE IS FAVORED

Vote Was Practically Unanimous for Lukens Site, While Opposition to Bonds Was Not General in Any District

THREE AGAINST BONDS FAVOR OF LUKENS

One District Votes Unanimous for Bonds and Unanimous for Lukens Proposition for New High School Units

That the people may safely be trusted to do the right thing when an issue is honestly explained was demonstrated in the election for high school bonds which were carried not only by big majorities but in a few instances by the unanimous vote of the precinct. In other words, it was a landslide. Scarcely less unanimity was shown in regard to the site, the Lukens property at Broadway and Verdugo being the choice of the voters in the central district of Glendale 20 to 1 and the unanimous wish of Eagle Rock, La Crescenta and other territory to the north. Practically the only vote polled against the bonds was in the section which voted at the Central Avenue school, where a total vote of 326 was polled, of which 258 ballots were for the bonds, 68 against, and where 184 votes were cast for the Lukens site and 132 for the Gray property.

The total vote in favor of the bonds was 2847, against them 174, or less than ten per cent.

The total vote for the Lukens site was 2751, for the Gray site 241.

The vote in detail follows:

	Bonds		Site
District	Yes	No	Lukens	Gray

COUNCIL PROTESTS RATE RAISE BY P.E. COMPANY

Hearing Will Be Asked in Matter of Various Improvements

The proposal of the Pacific Electric railroad to increase transportation rates between Los Angeles and Glendale did not meet with the approval of the city council at the meeting of that body last night. It appears that the proposed increase will advance the present round trip fare from 30 cents to 38. In recommending that the rate be increased to Glendale the officials of the railroad failed to make any recommendations regarding the improvements of the present service or the addition of adequate accommodation. It is stated that in all other cities where the rate has been increased, the railroad company has also agreed to improve service.

After considerable discussion Councilman Dwight Stephenson moved that the city attorney be instructed to take the necessary steps to oppose the proposed rates by filing a protest or by filing a petition for a rehearing as the rates are alleged to have been raised without recommendation for improvement of the service in this city.

The chamber of commerce was also asked by the city council to cooperate in the matter of securing a hearing and protesting against the increase.

SECOND TRIAL OF ARBUCKLE NEAR

State and Defense Ready to Proceed It Was Stated Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 30.—Roscoe Arbuckle will be tried a second time for manslaughter growing out of the death of Virginia Rappe unless something entirely unforeseen happens within the next few days to alter this determination. Both District Attorney Matthew Brady and Gavin McNab, chief of Arbuckle's defense, agreed on that statement today. Not only did they agree that the trial would proceed on January 9, but both were making preparations highly elaborate for it.

A jury panel of 60, including more than one-third women, has been drawn to report for the Arbuckle case. Arbuckle is remaining at his Los Angeles home, keeping out of the limelight and refusing steadfastly to talk for publication.

GETTING TO BE A REGULAR CALL

DENVER, Dec. 30.—For the second time in four weeks robbers carried away the safe of the Piggly Wiggly store here last night.

OFFICERS GET ONE BANDIT AFTER WOUNDED

Seek Second Man Believed Involved in Lockford Case

STOCKTON, Dec. 30.—A careful search of the brush along Paradise cut was being made today for the pal of the Lockeford bank robber who was killed there in a battle with officers late yesterday. Deputy Wheatley, who was shot three times and probably fatally wounded by the bandit, was gaining strength, following a transfusion of blood operation. City Marshal Madrid of Tracy, who aided Wheatley in the battle, and suffered a shattered elbow, was resting at his home.

Using two automatic revolvers, the bandit is believed to have wounded both officers simultaneously as they approached the automobile in which he was hiding. When the bandit raised his head over the side of the car to continue firing at the fallen officers, he received a bullet in the head and died instantly. He carried several articles of army equipment, including a piece of canvas with the name, "F. Ruttencutter, first lieutenant, Company D, 186th infantry" printed on it.

About $300, stolen from the Lockeford bank, was found in the car. The cashier of the bank of Galt is confident the man is the same who robbed that institution a short time ago.

BANKER SLAIN POSSE CHASING

OKLAHOMA City, Dec. 30.—A sheriff's posse today hunted Oklahoma county in search of Schell Hector, an Oklahoma City insurance agent who is wanted in connection with the death of E. W. Brindley, president of the Mustang State bank, who was shot and killed in the front yard of his home at Mustang last night.

ASKED FOR 1029 GOT ALCOHOL SAID JAMES

MODESTO, Cal., Dec. 30.—"Please give me No. 1029." Try that on your neighborhood druggist.

Of course, it may not work, but it was a hint given out by James McDonald, fruit worker, in the trial of two local druggists, proprietors of the Central Drug store.

McDonald testified that he entered the store and asked for "No. 1029," and was given pure grain alcohol. A jury acquitted the druggists.

MAY FORCE FRANCE TO PAY DEBT FOR NAVY STAND

Lever to Force French to Plan of Arms Conference Suggested

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—America may demand that France immediately pay her debt to this country as a means of forcing her to abandon her big submarine fleet policy. Amendments to the foreign debt refunding bill are being prepared. One of these, to be presented to the senate will direct that a demand be made on France for payment of interest and principal of the debt. This debt amounts to between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

France, of course, could not pay it off if the United States demanded it. The idea back of the proposed demand is that its adoption would serve notice on France that American public and official opinion, heretofore extremely friendly to France, had undergone a chilling because of the French attitude.

Other amendments to the bill, similar in import, have begun to take form at the capital. They all carry the idea that if France has money to spend on a huge army and navy, she ought to have some to pay off her war debts.

America stood with Britain "agreed in principle" to the British amendment in making the no-merchantman rule applicable immediately to the five powers here represented. Subsequently, if that can be passed, other powers would be asked to subscribe.

The British spokesman predicted that France, Italy and Japan would fall in line, though previously an American delegate has been pessimistic. The five power delegates, however, are now on record as reaffirming ancient rules of warfare which require:

1—Merchantmen must be ordered to stop for visit and search before any sinking can be attempted.

2—A merchantman must not be attacked unless she refuses to stop after warning.

3—Provisions must be made for crew and passengers of a torpedoed ship.

Meanwhile the French have objected to restrictions on ordinary aircraft and the conference has decided not to press the topic.

MOST BEAUTIFUL OF EMBASSY WOMEN AT COURT OF ST. JAMES

Madame Titulesco, the wife of the Rumanian minister to the court of St. James, is said to be the most beautiful of the women of the embassies in London.

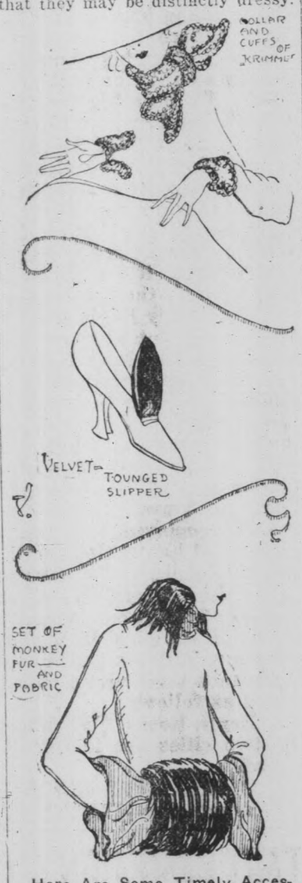
Fashions for Americans

The sketch illustrates some of the accessories approved for the present season. The upper sketch shows how smart it is possible to make a little collar and cuff set of fur or imitation fur for wear with an untrimmed suit or winter street frock. There are many fabric furs that are close imitations of real pelts. Naturally they are a great deal cheaper than the real furs, and when they are smartly fashioned into collar and cuff sets, separate scarfs or even muffs it is often difficult to tell whether these charming accessories are made of real fur or merely the imitation. Naturally, the fabric furs are easier to cut and sew than genuine skins. Krimmer, or imitation krimmer, was used for the set shown.

The center sketch indicates the present season fancy for voluminous shoe tongues—for evening or dressy wear, of course. The slipper shown was of silver cloth, and the high tongue of black velvet. To add such a tongue to a pair of plain slippers would not be a difficult task.

In the lower sketch is shown a collar and muff combining velvet and monkey fur, this set being particularly smart. Bright, colored velvet might be used with this black fur very effectively. There is a veritable rage for monkey fur as a trimming this season, designers finding it equally attractive for dresses, suits, coats, and hats. This, of course, means that it is not particularly cheap. Monkey fur has enjoyed the most spasmodic or erratic vogue of practically any of the pelts. When it was first featured to any extent a few years ago it became an immediate rage, then its vogue died out until the pelts could be bought for a mere song. This season they are up again in price, but there is no telling what may happen to the demand for them before another season rolls around.

The muffs preferred this season are fabric and fur combinations, so that they may be distinctly dressy.



Here Are Some Timely Accessory Suggestions.

Blake was talking with his friend Scribbler, the well-known English journalist of Fleet street.

"Do you believe in writing anonymously?" he asked the hero of the pen.

Scribbler looked to see that the door of his study was shut ere he replied in a confidential whisper:

"Well, I've often wished that one of my productions had been anonymous.

"What was that?" asked Blake.

"A letter proposing to Mrs. Scribbler," groaned the famous writer.

BIRTHS, WEDDINGS IN CALIFORNIA TAKE JUMP

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 30.—The most favorable year in the history of California, from a point of vital statistics has been completed L. E. Ross, state statistician of the state board of health announced here today with the making public of estimated vital statistics.

The birth rate of California is up, marriages made a huge jump and the death rate dropped.

The number of births estimated in California during the past year has been placed by Ross at 71,500, an increase of more than 4,300 over the 67,192 total of 1920. The birth rate is 19.9 births per thousand population—the highest in the history of the state. Last year's record breaking mark was 19.2 per 1000.

Deaths showed a decrease with an estimated total for this year placed at 46,500 as compared with 47,124 during 1920. This is a decrease of 624 and brings the death rate down to 13 deaths per 1,000 population, the lowest in the history of the state. Last year the rate was 13.5.

Estimated marriages are 47,500 as compared with 46,564 in 1920, an increase of 936 marriages. The rate per 1000 has decreased, however, being 13.2 this year as compared with 13.4 last year. This decrease in rate, despite the great increase in number, is due to the rapid increase in the population of the state, says Ross. This state increases its population 9,007 persons a month.

Infant mortality set a low record for the United States. The infant mortality of the state is estimated at 4,700 for the past year, while in 1920 it was 5,043, showing a decrease of 336, this brings the rate of child deaths down to 65.8 per 1000, said by Ross to be the lowest state rate in the country. Last year the infant mortality rate was 75. The lowest mark the rate ever reached previously was 70 in 1919, then a record mark.

Child welfare work and the work of the state bureau of child hygiene, Red Cross and kindred organizations are given credit by Ross for the low rate.

HEALTHATORIUMS IN CHICAGO GET BIG SET-BACK

District Attorney Says They Are Not Nice Places

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—The water was turned off in Chicago's fountain of youth today. Tired business men found padlocks on their favorite "health parlors" when they went around to recuperate from the fatiguing task of pulling the nation through the industrial depression.

Bath houses in Chicago's loop district, whose beautiful girl attendants gave the "atmosphere which business men appreciate" were closed. Some of the girl dispensers of "atmosphere" were in the clutches of the law.

Those who were wont to "seek rest and relaxation at the hands of the beautiful masseuses," as the handbills announced, had to go elsewhere.

"The old boys just loved these places," said State's Attorney Crowe, who started the raids. "They were ready to throw away their crutches and canes when they leave. Ponce De Leon should have come to Chicago."

Crowe said the "healthatoriums," most of them beautifully furnished, must be "stamped out if Chicago is ever to be purified."

Crowe put the lid on the first aids to longevity on grounds they were disorderly places. He said one proprietor of a bath house made this defense:

"The old men are not our only patrons, not at all. Many business and professional men forget or do not have time to take a shower at home in the morning. To this class we cater."

So, thanks to Crowe, the old-fashioned tub of Saturday night popularity, is now supreme.

SARRAUT GIVES REASONS FOR PLAN

French Delegate Outlines What His Nation Really Needs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—It's not France the arms conference should blame for the lamentable block over the submarine question, Albert Sarraut, head of the French delegation, declared today.

France has merely asked for her minimum requirements, he said. Other nations, it would seem, seek to limit France to less than her national security demands. Their attitude, not the firm stand of France for her rights, imperils the conference, Sarraut emphatically stated.

Here, he explained to the United Press, is why France needs 90,000 tons of submersibles:

1.—France would build with this limit ninety submarines of approximately 1,000 tons each.

2.—Admiral Lebon believes that of a nation's strength in submersible craft, only one-fourth is available for duty on the high seas at any one time. This means that France will have only 22 or 23 submarines available for active defense.

3.—France has a colonial population of 60,000,000 people. Her colonial trade amounts to more than 10,000,000,000 francs yearly. To protect this trade and these people, would require fully the 22 available submersibles. Yet there is the Mediterranean, the Atlantic coast and the English Channel still to be considered, the French say.

SAFE CRACKERS GET LITTLE LOOT

Stock Certificates Was All They Found in Safe When Opened

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 30.—Tom and Jerry, amateur safe-crackers, conceal in thir breasts a civic pride which is not to be denied or gainsaid. Recently they broke into the warehouse office of the Central Hay & Grain company's plant, smashed the safe, and removed a mass of stock certificates, there being no cash available.

The plunge in "futures" netted Tom and Jerry a few shares of Columbia Oil stock, a share of Spokane Merchants' association and one of the Pacific Northwest Grain association.

To make sure they would have gasoline for the car they may buy when the oil company strikes oil and the other concerns declare dividends, the pair carted along a few books of gasoline tickets.

Family Reunion—The home of Dr. and Mrs. Harry St. Clair on South Maryland avenue was the scene of a family reunion for the Christmas week-end, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weiskopf, daughter and son-in-law of the host and hostess, and their three children, came up from Inglewood, where they now reside.

DOUBLES OF WILSON AND LLOYD GEORGE, BOTH OF FRISCO, MEET FOR FIRST TIME

At first glance you'd say you had seen photographs of these two men before. But "Woodrow Wilson" is Ralph C. Faulkner, a San Francisco editor, and "Lloyd George" is the Rev. Dr. James L. Gordon, pastor of the First Congregational church of the same city. For years they have been living in San Francisco but they had never met until mutual friends, commenting on their remarkable resemblance to the former President and the British Premier, brought them together.

Imitation's Laws

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE
Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.
(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

The parent or educator who would make practical use of the laws of imitation as an aid in child training needs, first of all, to appreciate that there are two kinds of imitation—conscious imitation and unconscious.

As regards conscious imitation the principal law is that individuals tend to imitate persons whom they regard as their superiors—provided they do not feel hopelessly inferior to such persons. In the words of one psychologist:

"A feeling of inferiority puts the individual into a receptive attitude and inclines him to imitation, if the feeling of inferiority is not too intense or the inferiority itself not too great."

Admiration is thus a strong incentive to conscious imitation. Which emphasizes the importance both of giving children examples worthy of admiration, and of instilling into them at as early an age as possible an appreciation of intellectual and moral values.

Otherwise they will be liable to admire, and consequently to imitate, the unadmirable. As, in fact, frequently happens. Wholly as an outcome of conscious imitation we often see children—and immature adults—behaving in ways so unworthy that they may amount to criminality.

If a child, for example, is permitted to develop with such a faulty sense of values that he may deem a hulking "gang" leader a person to be admired, he is not unlikely through conscious imitation to become a gangster himself. This result is the more likely to follow if, through frequent personal contact with budding gangsters, unconscious imitation reinforces conscious.

For just as admiration is the prime stimulus to conscious imitation, so is frequency of personal contact the chief determinant of imitation of the unconscious sort.

That is the reason parents cannot be too careful as regards the daily associates of their children. It is also additional reason parents should themselves be zealous so to think and behave that their children will be influenced by unconscious imitation to right thinking and behaving on their own part.

For in the first years of life, at all events, the great habit-forming years, the most frequent associates of children are their parents. Unconsciously the children will absorb and tend to imitate whatever the parents present to them in the way of thought and action.

So potent is the imitative influence of personal association of children with parents that the former may unconsciously imitate even physical mannerisms of the latter. So that if a father walks with a distinctive gait his son is likely to grow up with the same peculiarity.

Even left-handedness is in certain cases demonstrably a product of imitation rather than of inheritance. This it is particularly likely to be if the left-handedness is limited to the use of certain things—as the use of a knife, a needle, a baseball bat, etc.

There are other laws of imitation to which reference might be made. But for practical purposes it will suffice parents and teachers to keep in mind the two laws here emphasized—the effect of admiration on conscious imitation, and the part played by frequency of personal contact in determining what shall be unconsciously imitated.

TO NAME PEAK IN PARK FOR F.K. LANE

Mt. Rainier Park Was Beloved by Once Cabinet Member

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 30.—"Here is one of our greatest parks," wrote Franklin K. Lane, of country in Mt. Ranier National park, where a peak will be named for him, according to a recent decision of the U. S. Geographic board.

The announcement of this decision lends interest to his eulogy of the locality as written in a communication not long before his death to the National Geographic society.

"The dominant feature in the landscape of the state of Washington," wrote Lane, "is Mount Rainier. I like the name Tacoma because it is an Indian name. Rainier was the name of an admiral who saw this splendid place. Tacoma was the Indian name and means "the feeding breast," and when you see the mountain you will realize where the Indians got that name, because from every side come down rivers which make for the strength, beauty and wealth of the country.

"Here is one of our great parks and I have stood therein with the snow of the glacier in one hand and touched with the other the blossoming wild flowers."

BURIED CAR IN NICE NEW GRAVE

First Dug Nice Hole, Then Put Car Parts in It

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 30.—A mysterious gravedigger here has gone Hamlet's skull tossers one better.

"Go to your garage," this individual might mutter, paraphrasing the Melancholy Dane, "and tell your motor car that tight locked though it be, to this it shall come," or words to that effect.

Recently two boys and a Japanese watched a man digging a large hole in a gulley near the outskirts of the city. When he had the grave dug to his liking, he got busy and drove an Oakland car right into the excavation. Then he solicitiously shrouded the body in canvas, removed the wheels and laid them carefully alongside, wrapped the engine parts and bearings in paper, covered the whole over neatly and departed, leaving behind in lieu of a burial wreath a pair of gloves.

The fascinated boys and Japanese watched the job completed and then told the police all about it. The bluecoats found the car belonged to Earl Davis, and advance the theory that the thief buried the stolen car until the search should blow over. He has not been found.

Truths in Epigram

Clever men are good, but they are not the best.—Carlyle (1795-1881).

The man that makes a character makes foes.—Young (1684-1765).

We may be personally defeated, but our principles never.—Garrison 1805-1879).

Wise men say nothing in dangerous times.—Selden (1584-1654).

ECHOES OF TREASON

"France knows that the international bankers who run our government are not really international bankers, but British bankers—that they were acknowledged and ACCREDITED agents of England during the war, and that they are actual agents of England today, although not openly acknowledged nor publicly accredited.

"France knows that the various proposals of America at the conference are really the proposals of England made through the international bankers and communicated by the international bankers to the statesmen at Washington, whom they own and operate and include among their tangible assets when they balance their books at night."

This is an excerpt from a recent editorial scream of anguish signed by Hearst. It has the taint of the same treasonable spirit that in the war caused him to support Germany against the allies and his own native country. In it are apparent several purposes.

Recently the Hearst papers insulted the French nation. They were perhaps the only ones guilty of slurring Marshal Foch while he was the guest of the American public. There were immediate reprisals. The French took the matter perhaps more seriously than its source warranted. Hearst is trying to win back to respectable standing with France.

A second apparent purpose was to express anew an undying, sinister and yet rather trivial, and at times amusing, hatred for all things English.

Then there was the outcry of the chronic disturber of the peace. Beaten in attempts to misrepresent the purpose and achievement of the conference, the chance to besmear the record seems to have been seized with eagerness. The whole article was tainted with the spirit of treason that marked articles in the same papers early in the war. It was very like an echo of the scandalous output of those trying days.

When Hearst declares that President Harding and Secretary Hughes are the mere puppets of English bankers, taking orders from these bankers, it is difficult to frame an answer. No malicious falsehood more wickedly deliberate ever was printed. If the author of that charge did not know himself to be lying, he has laid stout grounds for a plea of insanity.

The people of this country believe in freedom of speech and press. It may be there is no way of restraining the writer who slanders the government, traduces the President, terms the secretary of state among the assets of foreign bankers. But the insulting and outrageous treatment of trusted men and a respected government must arouse every citizen to resentment and indignation.

Has Hearst no friends to counsel him to cease his raving? Have his brainy associates no influence to save him from making himself more despised?

THE AVERAGE MOB

At Key West, Fla., recently a mob of masked men set upon and beat the proprietor of a coffee house. The nature of his offense was not stated. Possibly he had been serving his patrons poor coffee.

Acting upon the natural impulses stirred by such an experience, the man resisted. He shot and killed one of his assailants. Later he was taken from jail, hanged, and his "body riddled by bullets." This was the average mob.

As a matter of fact a person attacked by a masked mob must be regarded as fully justifiable in killing as many of them as possible. Men whose activities are of such character as to necessitate masks are not engaged in a respectable business at the moment. They are not good citizens. They are lawbreakers. They are doing nothing in promotion of justice, but they are breaking down statutory rules for the conduct of society.

Only a few days ago there was an effort to put through congress a bill for suppression of lynching. That is, the reign of the mob was to be so hedged about with restrictions and prospective penalties as greatly to discourage mob rule. The measure was opposed and delayed. Its opponents are in hope that it has been killed.

It happened that the opponents were from the south. Perhaps some of them came from the region adjacent to Key West.

MISDIRECTED LETTERS

Every city postoffice handles during the year thousands of letters illegibly addressed. This is apart from the number misdirected. The writing is so bad that often it cannot be deciphered.

This is an interesting circumstance when considered in connection with a current phase of education. An instructor of youth recently told an assemblage of teachers that there no longer was necessity for accuracy in handwriting. His idea seemed to be that anything worth writing nowadays would be written on a typewriter. This paper took exception to his view at the time. With thousands of letters in every city postoffice attesting how very wrong the view was, it takes occasion to emphasize its former exception.

All handwriting should be distinct. When it fails to be so, the indication is of carelessness or lack of culture. One has no more right to thrust an unkempt and illegible letter under the eyes of another than to be guilty of any other rude and needless trick.

Ability to write a fairly decent hand is essential to education. It also is a mark of good breeding. To know how to write is almost as important as to have something worth writing.

ITALY AND RUSSIA

An important clause in the treaty between Italy and Russia is that which sets forth that both agree "to abstain from hostilities, propaganda, boycotts and blockades against each other."

Russia's propaganda is the one feature of its activities that has made that country feared and even hated. The soviet leaders have not seemed to be content to conduct their own affairs. They have desired to regulate the affairs of all peoples. They have tried to send emissaries to this country to stir up revolution, always a "bloody revolution." No type not sanguinary to the utmost seemed to fit into the bolshevist ambition. Similar tactics have been directed against the peace and prosperity of the world.

Lenine got his power through violation of a treaty. It was a treaty with Germany, to be sure, and probably would have been broken by the latter at some convenient season. Lenine knew German diplomacy so well that he beat it to the process of using the treaty as a scrap of paper. However, on the theory that there is honor among thieves, a rogue betraying a fellow rogue, wins small merit.

If Russia has experienced a change of heart sufficient to make it heed a solemn obligation, regarding it as a pledge to be kept, the proof of its reformation will be cheering. Italy is supplying the opportunity for a test case. It may end in failure; it may present Russia in a new light, and open a way for it to relationship with other powers.

JAPAN'S TERRITORIAL INTEGRITY

Much fuss is being made over a construction of the conference agreement that makes it to include guaranty of the territorial integrity of Japan. If there were no chance of finding fault in this particular other ground would be found by the opposition. There are a number of statesmen, or so-called, obsessed of the notion that any alliance is of necessity a horrible entanglement.

Doubtless Japan has certain territory, and a right to possession that should be undisputed. An agreement among the powers to respect Japanese territorial integrity would amount to the pledge of each to keep hands off. There is nobody threatening, so far as known, to take away a single acre of any area belonging to Japan. If France, England and the United States have no disposition to disposses the Japanese, it is hard to figure out who would be holding such designs.

This country believes in preserving its own territory. It accords to Japan without debate, an equal privilege. There really does not seem much to get excited about.

If Japan were to reach out to the ends of the earth and assert claim to alien lands, the mere assertion of the claim would not render such lands Japanese territory. No nation signatory to the agreement could be bound to defend a groundless claim.

It might be asked that Japan, in return for the favor, should respect the territorial integrity of the United States, and cease the effort to change its character to Asiatic.

BECAUSE HE HAD A GUN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A tragic story was related some time ago in the newspapers.

Passengers on a steamship which arrived from South American ports saw a man shot to death on the steamer's decks.

Arthur Ketchie, master-at-arms of the ship, who did the shooting, was turned over to the police on arrival. His victim was Theodore Sekt, an oiler, a gigantic Swede reputed to be the son of a wealthy match manufacturer.

There seems to have been a row on board when a number of the crew left their forecastle to go forward to get a supply of liquor they had located.

Ketchie stopped them. A fight threatened and Sekt intervened to prevent it. He intended to act merely as a peacemaker.

His good nature was said to have been in accord with his size, and he was very popular among the men.

When Ketchie saw the six-foot Swede approach, however, he drew his gun and fired into the group. The bullet found Cekt, who dropped where he stood and died in ten minutes.

Ketchie fled in a panic, the crew pursuing him. Women passengers fainted and men passengers hurried to the cover of their cabins. Ketchie was rescued by the captain, who kept him a prisoner till the ship arrived in port.

This story illustrates what happens when a man has a gun. The captain did not know that Ketchie had one. It had been lent to him by the chief officer, because there was a large shipment of gold specie on board, without the knowledge of the captain.

A gun means death. When a man carries a revolver it is for the contingency of having to kill somebody.

It ought to follow logically from this that no man should be allowed to have a revolver unless the law reposes in him the power of executing the death penalty upon his judgment.

We already have laws in most civilized countries against the carrying of concealed weapons.

But it does very little good to make it a crime to be in possesion of a revolver so long as there are plenty of stores along the street where revolvers are sold.

It is a little short of ludicrous, if it were not so tragic, that while it is criminal to own an instrument of death anybody can walk into a store and buy one in perfect freedom.

At the present stage of civilization it is the state alone, the government alone, that has the right to execute the death penalty, and that only after due process of law. And that being the case, it is the government alone that should have the right to manufacture and sell instruments of death.

The sale of arms for hunting and other purposes may be necessary. But the private sale of deadly weapons to the people generally, and particularly of revolvers, is another matter.

The American people have already abolished the saloon and taken away from the ambitious merchant the right to peddle poison to all comers.

And it is high time that it began to consider "gats" and such things as equally dangerous.

(Copyrighted by Dr. Frank Crane)

THE LISTENING POST

My friend, in the exuberance of his affection, sends me a card to herald the New Year.
And to wish me joy.
And prosperity.
Whatever prosperity may mean.

* * *

Prosperity is differently interpreted.
It means, literally, a state in which you prosper.
But what does it mean to prosper?
We come back to the same question again.

* * *

To prosper means to advance, you say.
Well, what is advancement?
It is a going forward.
Truly enough, but going forward to what?
There are times when it is better to go backward than it is to go forward.

* * *

If you are headed for a chasm or precipice, then it is better to go backward than forward.
If you are on a wrong road, it is better to face about.
If you are progresing into a swamp, it is better to retrace your steps and get on solid ground.

* * *

So the virtue of progress depends on the nature of the road.
And prosperity does not mean merely fatness.
If so, the pig prospers towards the butcher.
And the turkey gobbler toward the axe and the block.

* * *

But my friend who loves me does not mean that of course.
But he says that he wants every day to be full of sunshine.
And that would not do at all.
Because if every day were full of sunshine nothing would grow for long.

* * *

The desert has many days full of sunshine.
And yet the desert is not especially desirable as a place to live.
So it is not good that every day shall be full of sunshine.
There must be some showers and gray days.

* * *

What an evil thing it would be if you wished a field of wheat or corn nothing but days full of sunshine.
We should have no ripened wheat or corn.

* * *

And my friend wishes that not a trial shall come to me.
Dear, Oh dear, what a calamity he wishes me!
To grow merely lazy and sluggish and spineless like a jellyfish!
No trial to strengthen or upbuild or refine my spirit!

* * *

And he wishes me all the joy in the world.
Leaving none, by inference, for anyone else.
And what a selfish thing utterly that would be.
To have all the joy in the world.
It would be so much better to have merely my share.
And pass some of that along, lest somebody be missed.

* * *

Of course, my friend did not write it himself.
He found the card somewhere and it pleased him.
And he sent it on, because it expressed what he thought to be the very fullness of affection.
And he wanted me to know how much he cared for me.

* * *

And I thank him for it in my heart of hearts.
But I cannot accept it all.
For it would make life too joyous and easy.
And I do not want joy and ease.
I want work and strength.

* * *

So I feel it would be better to amend it.
And send along something like this:
"MAY YOU BE QUICK TO SMILE.
STRONG TO SUFFER.
GENTLE TO FORGIVE.
LOVING TO BE KIND.
SPIRITED TO LABOR.
GENEROUS TO SHARE.
GLAD TO LIVE.
AND UNAFRAID."

* * *

And if you like that, it is an advance New Year wish for you.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Praise and Prayer—By Sir William Davenant (1606-1668)

Praise is devotion fit for mighty minds,
The diff'ring world's agreeing sacrifice;
Where Heaven divided faiths united finds:
But Prayer in various discord upward flies.

For Prayer the ocean is where diversely
Men steer their course, each to a sev'ral coast;
Where all our interests so discordant be
That half beg winds by which the rest are lost.

By Penitence when we ourselves forsake,
'Tis but in wise design on piteous Heaven;
In Praise we nobly give what God may take,
And are, without a beggar's blush, forgiven.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

A DEBT OF GRATITUDE

[From Leslie's]

This country is under a singular obligation to the promoters of the Ku Klux Klan.

At the basis of our institutions is a conception of liberty that is the very antithesis of race prejudice, religious intolerance, extra-legal interference with private conduct, masked power. Yet in more or less respectable guise all these things have flourished in our midst; at no period of our national history have we been free from them. Now, however, the Imperial Wizard and his associates have gathered them all together under the banner of their Klan and dressed them in the language and habiliments of the hob-goblin—in other words, presented them to popular gaze in a manner to bring home to the least imaginative their truly sinister character. Personified once and for all in the night-riding figure of the hooded Klansman, with his phosphorescent cross, they may no longer be regarded as abstractors, but as something tangible and hateful to be crushed with the weight of popular indignation.

This "materialization" is the unique service for which we have to thank the rulers of the Invisible Empire. And the best evidence of our gratitude is the countrywide demand for the extinction of their "fraternal" order.

MRS. TROTZKY AT HOME

[New York Times]

Mrs. Trotzky, wife of the accomplished soviet humanitarian, has poured upon an American correspondent the story of her life. While she is described as "conservative," her nose is "tilted," revolutionary. We are permitted to look into "her brown eyes with their depths of humor and earnestness." Russia has been singularly afflicted with earnestness in the last four years; but it must be a little difficult for Russians outside of the little ruling class to keep a robust sense of humor. The lady herself stirs it by relating her trials and tribulations and imprisonments, her "six long months before trial." Her friends have changed much of that. Miscellaneous massacres are the easiest method of quick jail deliveries.

No friend of "feminism" is Mrs. Trotzky. She asks American women to "realize the peculiar lack of sex solidarity that characterizes Russian women." What is there peculiar about it? A lack of sex solidarity in politics characterizes all but the scantiest squad of woman voters everywhere. Asked what the revolution did for women, she replied, orphically: "A social gain is a human gain. Whatever liberates men must also liberate women, and vice versa." No doubt "the bearings of this observation lays in the application on it." But it is also true that whatever enslaves men must enslave women; and Russian men and women have been hopelessly enslaved under Trotzky and his fellow "liberators."

AMERICAN PEOPLE FIRST

[New York Herald]

The American people to a certainty agree with President Harding that the United States should be the first to ratify the four-power treaty covering the insular possessions in the Pacific of this country. Great Britain, France and Japan.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP CONDEMNED

[New York Times]

After four years of consideration, the committee of the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners condemns public ownership of such enterprises, whether publicly or privately operated.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

It's very foolish to be a mudbank. We're made for something far better. Every passing footprint, every chance contact quickly leaves its mark in mud. We all know people who are much the same.

A careless word, a thoughtless opinion, and they are at once impressed. A chance suggestion can change the whole trend of their thought. They seem to have no settled convictions, no concrete beliefs. Thought-life with them is merely—mud—vague of shape and image, ready for instant change.

Of course there's such a thing as being too strong minded, or so cock-sure and unyielding to outward influences that we're obstinate. But that's the extreme opposite.

Every one who has worked much with others knows that the despair of the leader is the man or woman who is not to be depended on; the one who starts out with vim and enthusiasm, but when opposition is met with just as quickly drops away, or goes over to the other side.

There's another variety of mudbank individual, also. There's the one who can immediately pass from sunshine to cloudiness if adverse criticism comes. Who is so highly supersensitive that the slightest sign of disapproval causes instant hurt. One such person can keep a whole family in hot water.

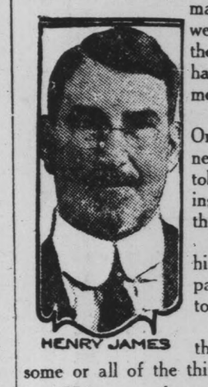
The comfortable person to live with or to associate with is the person with a good stiff backbone; the one not oversensitive to praise or blame, the one not too easily influenced by the modos of others.

Are we mudbanks, or firmer of mould?

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

For many months there has been evidence of the existence of a huge conspiracy having for its purpose the robbery of mails. Here and there might be a sporadic robbery having no relation to the activities of the main group. However, the larger crimes were so well planned, and perpetrated just at the time when the gains would be large, almost proving that they had been planned, not by vulgar "yeggs," but by men of brains.



HENRY JAMES

Some of these men seem now to be in custody. On behalf of one is made the statement that he never touched a card, and never drank, or used tobacco. These may be interesting facts concerning him, but unfortunately for his personal outlook, they have nothing to do with the case.

The most astute rogue knows that he must keep his mind clear and his body alert. Sobriety becomes part of his game. There also is necessity for him to preserve the appearance of respectability.

Perhaps the friends of the prisoner are not aware that men of high character have been known to do some or all of the things that the accused held taboo.

The man who robs the mails, and sets up as a defense that he "never touched a card" is adding an exhibition of nerve to his other misdeeds. It is far worse to touch feloniously the private property of another, than to smoke a cigar that has been honestly paid for.

Eugene Debs has complete liberty, which includes the liberty of speech. He hates war, and has a right to say so. His view that the conference can have no effect as to future conflicts, stated in his first utterance away from prison, probably is made interesting only by the personal equation.

The conference is dealing with more than the subject of disarmament. It is seeking to adjust differences, and to arrive at an amicable understanding. To imply that it is acting in bad faith, does not do credit to Debs. He should leave that sort of talk to the Hearsts.

A Denver woman left her son a bed quilt and a painting of small value, giving her $75,000 estate to an old ladies' home. The son sought to break the will, and is to be congratulated on having done so.

At the trial the fact was brought out that since the birth of the boy the mother had hated him. Had she been a reasonable person she never could have blamed the youngster for being born.

Every unjust and cruel will ought to be broken.

Italy is said to have made a treaty with the soviet government. Doubtless many other countries would be willing to do similarly if the soviet government were content to govern Russia and keep its malign hands off the affairs of its neighbors.

There could be no logical objection to whatever sort of government the Russians wanted for themselves, if they did not conduct it as a threat and a nuisance to all civilization.

Prisoners in the county jail were treated to an excellent dinner Christmas. This ought to have been good for them in more ways than one. They might learn from it that they are not shut in because society hates them. The public would be greatly pleased were there no occasion to lock away anybody.

Men are placed in jail, as a rule, because they are not fit to be outside. Kind treatment while they are prisoners is likely to be more effective than harshness, in changing them for the better.

Postoffice employes have peculiar experiences every holiday season. For a short period their work is made ten times greater than usual. It is impossible for them to distribute the vast mass of mail in the time required by the ordinary volume. In consequence the carriers are late in going their rounds. The public ought to understand this and be reasonable about it.

It is frequent for some one to call up a postmaster and complain bitterly that the mail is being delayed. The postmaster, being a gentleman, starts to explain, but he might as well expend his breath in whistling against a gale. When a woman wants her mail she wants it. That's all there is to it. There is no way to convince her that patience is a virtue, and the only way to shut her off is to hang up the phone.

Suits for alienation are getting so common as to suggest that they have been found profitable. They have not yet won their way to excellence in moral standing.

When a man contends that some interloping male has stolen the love of his better half, he does not acquire sympathy by taking the matter to court. Were he to remark to the woman "Good riddance" and point the way down the road, he could be excused and even complimented. If he were to hunt up the intruding Don Juan and knock his block off, as the saying is, he would be sure of commendation. When he files suit for damages, he is likely to get laughed at.

With the necessary changes, all this applies also to a case wherein the husband is the person vamped.

* * *

In a recent divorce case a wife alleged that at the time she was about to undergo a major operation, her husband had talked too cheerfully about her prospective funeral.

The attitude of the court in this instance has not been stated, but so far as this column could influence the matter, it would pull for the decree she seeks, and throw in alimony to the very limit.

Rains have subjected the roads of southern California to a severe test which most of them have withstood with credit. At the same time, a cautious driver will for the present be on the alert for breakers, or breaks ahead.

A recent arrival from San Francisco says he counted eighty-five wrecked automobiles along the way, and that owing to low visibility, he may have missed a few at that.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

We have a new candidate for postmaster in our town and if we do not look out he'll get the job. None of us want him. The old postmaster is plenty good for us. Judging from the business record of the candidate, if he gets the office we will carry our own mail to the trains and go back of the little glass partition and deal out our letters ourselves. But the chances are he'll get the job.

"I'd like to have your name on my petition," he said to me the other day.

I didn't want to sign his petition. I know that man as if he were a globe of goldfish. He is a shallow as a saucer and a congenial and ingrowing gossip and he doesn't shave half often enough to suit my tastes. But he has a way of looking at you. You know how it is—

"I want your name on my petition," he said.

So I gave it to him. I'm weak, I know, but I didn't see any reason why I should be snobby about it. After all, a lot of other people had signed his petition and if I didn't sign I knew that he would remember it, and some time he would make it unpleasant. Not that I know of any way in which he could make it unpleasant, unless he poisons my dog. Well, he's that sort of a man. He might poison my dog.

For the past two months he has been travelling up and down our Main street, getting names on his petition. The politicians are all with him, because he knows how to handle a part of the hootch vote and the hootch vote has its uses along in November. Anyhow, the postoffice in our town isn't such a prize that a really prosperous, busy, ambitious man would want it. But I haven't heard of any man who has refused to sign. By the time he gets through patroling Main street he will have the name of every person who uses that thoroughfare.

Of course, this isn't right. But it is mighty hard to look a man in the eye and say "no" when he looks you in the eye first and says:

"I want your name. Sign here."

Some of the boys in the chamber of commerce know Will Hays, and they may take a run down to Washington and talk to him about it. They think they can head this man off. But I'm not going down. I'm afraid he might hear about it.

MISS MARIE OLIVER HOSTESS AT PARTY

Miss Marie Oliver of 1314 North Central avenue entertained Thursday night with a delightful party, the evening being spent in playing bunko. The house decorations were carried out in Christmas bells, holly wreaths and in the living room stood a beautifully decorated Christmas tree.

During the course of the evening solos were rendered by Everet York and Miss Oliver. Miss Lois Percy played several selections on the piano. Prizes were awarded, Miss Lois Percy getting first prize, which was a box of stationery, and consolation prize going to Miss Agnes Thaxter. A midnight supper was served to about sixteen guests.

COMMUNITY TREE THURSDAY NIGHT

The much postponed community Christmas tree which had been planned as an out-door affair, had its showing Thursday night in the auditorium of the branch library building at the corner of Brand and Los Feliz road, as all were agreed it was too wet underfoot for little children to assemble in the open.

As chairman of the committee of arrangements and president of the Thursday Afternoon club, Mrs. E. V. Bacon presided.

The program opened with the story of the birth of Christ told by H. Loren Mitchell who had endeared himself to the children of South Glendale during the summer that he served as playground director.

A young girl, Elsie Whitney, gave a reading, "The Obstructive Hat in the Pit," and in response to enthusiastic applause gave as an encore a "stuttering" recitation.

A program of songs which included "Holy Night," and "Gather Around the Christmas Tree" was given by a chorus of Cerritos Avenue girls, viz., Margery Gilhuly, Luella Ashton, Beulah Lewis, Florence McGoubrey, Ruth Harwood, Evelyn Sullivan, Evelyn Matten, Dorothy Howe, and Margery Priaulx.

Mrs. E. E. Harwood entertained with several recitations of child life which were warmly encored, and Joe Griffin gave amusing monologues which drew tremendous appaluse.

The hall was crowded and not all could find seats but they did not seem to mind the hardship of standing and when the program ended every one present received a treat of apples, nuts and candy from the tree.

The last of the evening was devoted to informal sociability and the community Christmas tree was voted a great success even though the original intent had been frustrated.

Very satisfactory reports were received from the committee on Christmas activities.

The tent gift to the ex-service men at Thornycroft was a check in the amount of $20 to go to help furnish their recreation hall at Thornycroft. A large attendance is expected at the installation of officers which will be a public affair. Mrs. Cora Jones was in charge of the meeting Tuesday.

MISS LINDLEY BRIDE OF DORIS SMITH

Miss Zelma Lindley, daughter of Arthur G. Lindley, had set her wedding date for January 1, but stole a march on her friends and was married Thursday evening at 10 o'clock to Doris Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Smith of this city.

The ceremony took place at the Lindley home, 123 South Belmont, with Dr. Clyde M. Crist officiating, the only witnesses being Arthur G. Lindley and Miss Wilson of Los Angeles, a close friend of the pretty bride, who was gowned in a wedding dress of white georgette over white satin, with the conventional veil and white satin slippers.

Immediately following the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Smith left by auto for a honeymoon trip, their objective being San Francisco. They will be at home to their friends after January 10, at the Lindley residence, where Mrs. Smith will continue to act as housekeeper for her father as well as her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are popular among the younger set, especially the young people of the First Methodist church, where the bride has been a member of the choir for some time. Mr. Smith is associated with his father in the grocery business at 523 South Brand.

Their new home was beautifully decorated in Christmas colors and a bountiful turkey dinner, and music was enjoyed by all. This was also the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Newhouse. Mrs. Hubbert and Mrs. Newhouse were girlhood friends in Iowa; their parents' farm homes joined for many years. Although the day was stormy this occasion made a bright spot in the memories of those present, long to be remembered.

Each member of the club was given permission to bring a guest, provided the names were recorded with the executive board by Wednesday evening, and preparations have been made for the entertainment of 60 to 75 young people who are expected to come in the costumes of children of ten years or under, also to bring a gift valued at 10 to 15 cents for the Christmas tree which will be the central decoration feature of the party.

Mr. Douglas sang several selections from the opera "Zaza," playing his own accompaniment, a treat greatly enjoyed by the other guests.

Mrs. Frank Arnold sang two numbers—"The Star," by Rogers, and Come, Will You Come to Me," by Vernon Spencer.

IN THIRTY YEARS NATION BE DRY

Seer of Colusa Herald Has Vision of Real Dry Period

COLUSA, Cal., Dec. 30.—In 20 or 30 years it will be almost impossible to get a drink. Thus the seer of the Colusa Herald is moved to muse by the recent passage of a little Volstead law by the city. By that time, of course, we'll most of us be dead—which may make things a little easier, perhaps.

"If citizens, trustees and officers go after the blindpiggers early and late, persistently and with determination," he says, "the nuisance can be reduced to a minimum. But it can't be stopped.

"I should say if we succeed in closing all the places in which booze is sold, thus driving the piggers to become bootleggers, we will have done all that is to be expected. The fight will then, of course, be on bootlegging. Perhaps much hounding will make his business so difficult that the pigpers will go out of business as bootleggers, thus turning over the bootlegging to the more unskilled men who will make poorer booze and peddle it more awkwardly—and also be easier to catch.

"This will mean that in time the drinkers will care less for the stuff they get and at last they will not want it at all. This will be in 10, 20 or thirty years."

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Faries of 404 North Louise street will be the dinner guests on Monday of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Howarth of Los Angeles. Mrs. Faries and Mr. Howarth are brother and sister.

HER INTERESTED RELATIVES

"I wish I knew what to do about father," wailed the very pretty girl to the sympathetic bachelor uncle. "It is just awful!"

"What has he been up to now?" queried the bachelor uncle. "It's a shame how fathers do bother their children."

"It's the way he acts about men," explained the very pretty girl in desperation. "Most always he takes violent dislikes to my callers, and that is dreadful—but when he does like them, it is worse, because I never see any of them! He just gobbles them up!

"He likes them so much that the minute they get inside the house he pounces on them and drags them off into his den and gives them expensive cigars and wants to know what they think about the League of Nations, the price of steel and what Japan may be going to do to us and if it isn't, why isn't it? Then he tells me they are very intelligent young men, most exceptional, in fact, and that if I will bring men like that around he has no objection at all to them—and there am I on the side lines, so to speak, without even the remotest chance even to wigwag hello at them!"

"If they are clever young men," frowned the bachelor uncle, "they would make their escape and all would be well! Have the youths of today no ingenuity?"

"They wouldn't dare to try to escape," the pretty girl told him with a frown of surprise: "If a young man likes a girl he has to be awfully careful about her family and I can just see one of them trying to edge away from dad and remain good friends!"

"They have to give an imitation of sitting at ease enjoying themselves and they are obliged to smile brightly and agree perfectly with everything father says! Why, it brought tears to my eyes the other night to hear Billy's voice saying, 'Yes, Mr. Figpaste,' 'No, indeed, Mr. Figpaste,' or 'I agree with you to the limit, Mr. Figpaste!'"

"Isn't there some way of camouflaging a nice young man and making him impress your father as a stupid young man?" suggested the bachelor uncle hopefully. "When he begins to take note of one of your pet friends can't you think up some tiresome story about the boy or comment casually on his general lack of brains and boresome tendencies?"

"Not a chance," mourned his niece. "Father doesn't listen deliberately when I have company, but he's always sort of prowling around, you know, and he hears us talk. When he doesn't like a man he tells me next morning that I'd win out in any endurance test that was ever run, and that I would have his sincere sympathies for my sufferings entertaining that halfwit, except that I deserve some punishment for asking such an impossibility to the house.

"If the young man impresses him he nabs him the next time he comes and I might just as well retire to the coal cellar. I simply am not present, and do you think I enjoy knowing that a perfectly good caller with a big box of candy and a theater treat in his mind is being all muddled up and distracted with heavy conversation when his main idea in coming was to be amused and charmed?

"Don't you see that it is going to end in everybody's running like made to get away from me and I'll die an old maid?

"It's far easier to stand when father doesn't like 'em. In that case he usually scares them to pieces by dropping his glasses down his nose and treating them to long surveys over the tops of the rims, meanwhile shaking the newspaper in his hands in vicious little jerks, spasmodically, as though his feelings had overcome him and he was restraining himself by main force. He varies this by low growls and barks and finally he jumps up and walks away hurriedly, as though he didn't care where he went so long as it was away from here! You know, that sort of thing has its effect and it is a brave man who can bear up under it. And you've no idea how keen competition is and I can't afford to lose any of my men."

"If you girls would run a sort of clearing house for your admirers you would not have to lead this hectic life of grab and snatch," reproved the bachelor uncle. "It would be a sort of socialistic affair, with all things equal, and——"

"We'd just perfectly hate them equal," declared the very pretty girl. "It wouldn't be any fun or anything! But you haven't told me what to do about father! Ted Buncombe is coming tonight and father is just crazy about Ted and it is going to interfere horribly if——"

"Ted Buncombe!" repeated the bachelor uncle with interest. "Say, there's a chap for you! I'd like to see him myself! Guess I'll hang around till he comes——"

"My goodness!" moaned the very pretty girl, jumping up and departing. "I'm going to start this minute and flag Ted at the front sidewalk and take him for a walk! I never saw such a family! It's hopeless!"

"MY, BUT IT'S CHILLY these mornings"—you've no doubt said over and over again with a shiver! But here's a solution to your problem—and I found it in the Christmas clearance sale for Friday and Saturday only, at NEALE & GREGG'S HARDWARE STORE, 107 North Brand boulevard. Imagine my delight to learn that the famous Hot-Spot Gas Heaters—known from coast to coast for their warmth and usefulness—are to play a prominent part in this looked-for-clearance! They are very economical of gas consumption, practically odorless, well built of durable sheet metal with a good-looking baked enamel finish—and with even copper deflectors! Oh, yes, and another advantage in the Hot-Spot is the heavy wire dress guard—to prevent one's clothes from being drawn to the flame! Mr. Neale is offering these dandy little heaters in eight different sizes—one suitable for each and every purpose—warming the bathroom or the bedroom, or for use in the living-room! Yes, and they've a handle so that they can be easily moved from one room to another—or you can adjust it to be attached to a flue if desired. On these damp, cold, rainy mornings, could anything be more wonderful than a cozy little heater warming your room before you get up? The special discounts which Mr. Neale is offering for Friday and Saturday only will surely be of unusual interest to you. For instance the $5.50 model is to be sold at $4.40, while for $6. you can buy the regular $7.50 stove and the Hot-Spot which formerly sold for $10.25 will be only $8.20, and the others are reduced accordingly. But, remember this is only a two-day special—Friday and Saturday only, so be there early—this is your golden opportunity!

Earrings are very elaborate in design and show green and blue stones.

OH! MY DEAR, you'll simply love the adorable dresses of Poiret twill, tricotine and canton crepe which Madame Geraldine of THE FASHION SHOPPE, 406 South Brand boulevard is closing out to make room for her new stock which will arrive next week. They are all gowns of the very last word—just from New York—and made of beautiful materials—but the prices are so low they will simply amaze you! You'd better stop in next time you're down town—for they won't last long at such low prices. And, if you'd like to have Madame Geraldine design a gown for you, I'd advise you to leave your order, for she is even now busy making up orders for stunning dresses!

Instead of using ribbons for bow ties, dressmakers are using organdie.

---

PERHAPS YOU'VE AN INDIVIDUAL sentiment you wish to express on the pillow you're sending to the "folks back East?" Then at the SHOP UNIQUE, 125 W. Broadway you may have it especially marked—and, if you wish, a lovely little verse written for it! Mr. Tolman will furnish special marking on any of the leather goods purchased at his Shop Unique—and without extra cost above the purchase price! They have a beautiful line of fine leather table runners, pillows, and other novelties—all essentially California!

---

The French frocks are shirred on an elastic at the waist line.

IF YOU WOULD BE WELL groomed always, just make a New Year's resolution that the BRAND CLEANERS of 217 South Brand boulevard will do all of your cleaning. They are experts in their line and their prices are most reasonable!

AS I LOOK BACK over my day's tour of the shops and stores of Glendale I'm wonderfully happy—for in every instance I've heard reports of a really successful year being brought to a truly successful ending and an eagerness to "carry on" with the business of the New Year—1922! Little can we know what this coming year may have in store for us—but we're all more or less anxious to help the old year out—and welcome its successor! During the next twelve months Glendale will grow to be a much larger city than it now is—just as the passing year has witnessed an unprecedented growth over former years! And we know that year in and year out Glendale, our "beautiful city of homes" will show such marked improvement over other years that we will be proud to be here and to have helped in its growth! But in order to participate in the progress of our wonderful little city—we must each of us do our share to help the merchants of Glendale expand their business and thus grow in proportion to and with the city! The merchants of Glendale are, because of their reduced expenses, enabled to offer you the same goods at less prices than the merchants of the neighboring city—and thus they are deserving of your earnest support! Today, in these columns, I have told you of more than one after-Christmas clearance sale—sales of genuine merit and worth offering specials that will mean a considerable saving to you.

Martha Alicia

So, here's to the New Year, 1922, may it's coming mean health, happiness and success to you—Mr. and Mrs. Glendale and all the little Glendales—and may its close show another and even greater bounty of PROSPERITY FOR GLENDALE!

---

Red-and-white hats are very fashionable.

I'M ALWAYS SO GLAD when I'm bringing you news of a really, truly, bargain sale! And that's just what SHERROD'S SPECIALTY SHOP, of 207 E. Broadway are holding this week! And it is just at a time when it is most convenient, too, that they're offering such drastic reductions on the fine undermuslins for which they are known! Just the thing, I should say, to buy with your Christmas money—an attractive combination or gown—even bloomers—for they are personal gifts of infinite service—and gifts which most women like to select for themselves! Oh, yes, and you'll have to stop in and look at the lovely chemise petticoats which they have also reduced for this special sale!

---

Make a short, puffy biscuit mixture and cut it into doughnut shapes with a cutter. Cover your meat pie top with these rings. It's attractive.

FOR A LONG LIFE OF HEALTH and happiness, I'd recommend your drinking BOOTH'S SPECIAL BLEND COFFEE—as it is always pure and wholesome! You see Mr. Booth blends all of his own teas and coffees right there in his store at 318 East Broadway—and thus you may be assured that they have been roasted to just the right degree of perfection. And you will notice that the flavor and aroma of Booth's coffee is far superior to that of any other you've ever bought. I know that you'll never be satisfied with any other after having once tasted this delicious brand of coffee. And, too, you will find it most economical!

I'VE MADE A MOST INTERESTING DISCOVERY! At HARRY MOORE'S, 304 East Broadway, you can have your old, unsightly furniture, entirely re-finished and made actualy beautiful! Can you imagine, for instance, that homely old oak dresser you've disliked so long—as a lovely, ivory piece? Yet that is exactly what Mr. Moore does—he will put an attractive ivory finish on it—making it just as smooth as glass—and it will be perfectly beautiful! I think it would be nice to have your entire bedroom set done over—the cost will be very reasonable and the effect entirely pleasing. Then, too, you might have the woodwork Kyanized—finished in ivory, and your room will be a perfect "dream!" Or, if you've a wicker breakfast room set that you would like to have attractively painted that is just what Mr. Moore can do to perfection. I give you my word that you'll not recognize your own pieces when he has finished with them, for you can't imagine the difference a little paint tastefully applied makes! Mr. Moore also specializes in paper-hanging and interior decorating — work with which he is thoroughly familiar and most efficient! Take him your decorating and painting problems—for I'm sure they will be quickly and satisfactorily solved when Mr. Moore takes hold of them!

If, for the sake of a color scheme, you wish your biscuits to be yellow, add two yolks of eggs to the dough.

---

"THE CLOSING OF THIS YEAR, 1921, marks the closing of our first season in Glendale—a season of unprecedented success." So said Mr. Nussbaum, of NUSSBAUM'S GROCERY AND MEAT MARKET, 244 North Brand boulevard. You know it was only a few months ago that Mr. Nussbaum came here from New York to buy out the grocery business which he is now running so successfully under his own name. The reason for this success? Yes, I'll tell you why—its because the housewives of Glendale know that at Nussbaum's they may buy the very finest quality at the lowest possible prices for, thanks to his long years of experience along such lines, he is able to buy the best brands most reasonably! And, so, Mr. Nussbaum is taking this opportunity to thank his many friends and customers for their patronage—and to wish them a world of happiness and success throughout the coming year!

---

Tied and dyed work is extremely fashionable and resembles the artistic batik work now in vogue.

---

JUST THE ATTRACTIVE GREETING CARD, with a beautifully worded sentiment for the New Year, you'll find at the MISSION STORE, 107 West Broadway. Although Mr. Baines' stock of distinctive cards and fine stationery was almost entirely bought out by the Christmas shoppers—he is replacing the entire selection with another beautiful line, this week. Oh, yes, and you'll find all of the horns and noise-makers you'll need for New Year's eve at the Mission Store, too!

---

Add one pound of finely chopped dates to a batch of whole wheat bread.

A LITTLE GAS HEATER that fairly radiates warmth and cozy hospitality is just what you need on these rainy days! THE GLENDALE FURNITURE STORE, 606-608 East Broadway is offering for one week only, beginning January 1, their entire stock of dandy gas heaters at about cost! This is your golden opportunity to insure warmth and comfort for your family at a genuine saving! Don't lose it!

IN ORDER THAT THEY MAY more conveniently remodel their store, THE GLENDALE PHARMACY, of 638 East Broadway, is offering at remarkable bargains the remainder of their entire Christmas stock of White Ivory, toys, stationery, soaps, pound paper, wash cloths—even to fine Turkish bath towels. You will find it well worth your while to stop in and look over these and the numerous other items included in this wonderful sale.

Try using leftover coffee in spice cakes instead of sour milk. It serves just as well.

IT'S SUCH A JOY TO FIND a really substantially built, homey place such as VANDENHOFF of 205 N. Brand Blvd. showed me today! It is a lovely five-room home, almost new, situated on a deep lot and boasting a fine cellar, garage and just lots of fruit trees. At $4850—the price Mr. Vandenhoff has set on it—this is a real buy—'way below market price! And you can arrange terms also!

EVERY DAY MARKKS the arrival of a new shipment of taffeta dresses for spring at the GLENDALE DRY GOODS STORE, 115 East Broadway. And, Miss Holzman tells me the outstanding feature of them all is the full skirt—many of them seeming to be absolute re-creations of the olden hoop-skirt! Of course they're all adorably fluffy frocks, designed just to make woman look most winsome! And, for wear during the mornings and about the house, the lovely new Molly-Made crepe aprons in the pretty brown and yellow combinations and those beautiful blue shades, trimmed with dear little crocheted flowers—are just the thing. You will simply love them—you couldn't resist it!

To their many friends and customers who by their support during the last few months have made possible their wonderful success—the Glendale Dry Goods—wish to extend their best wishes for a gloriously happy and prosperous New Year!

Discarded woolen underwear makes low slippers worn with rubber boots. When dyed it makes warm mittens.

SHE'S TO BE MARRIED NEXT Week—and of course you will want to send just the nicest gift imaginable! Can you think of anything more appropriate than a handsome clock that not one minute or hour of their happy wedded life shall pass unrecorded? ARTHUR H. DIBBERN, 121 North Brand boulevard, has a wonderful selection of beautiful clocks—happy reminders of the long hours of joy they'll have together! Then, too, silver is always acceptable to the bride-to-be—and you will not want for an inspiration at Dibbern's—for just today I saw there the loveliest of silver candelsticks, vases, cream pitchers, sugar bowls, cake plates and a wonderful display of knives and forks in both the sterling silver and the popular community patterns.

---

For evening wear jeweled bands are worn over the forehead.

THE NEW YEAR'S PARTY—the time when everyone expects the utmost of enjoyment and pleasure—won't be complete without some of PUSS 'N BOOTS fine candies! Pure, french confections they are—and they represent the very best that's to be had in the candy line. The number is 211½ South Brand boulevard.

---

A plate scraper of wood or rubber saves the dish water from grease.

FURS, WHEN TASTEFULLY DESIGNED and correctly worn, enhance woman's every charm! Miss Bedell of the BEDELL FUR SHOP, 1125 North Louise street, makes a specialty of designing exquisite furs that express one's own personality. It is her joy to fashion the garments along the most becoming lines—hiding wherever possible unattractive stoutness or thinness and accenting every beautiful line! Miss Bedell also makes the most hopelessly out-of-date fur coats into chic up-to-the-minute scarfs and capes. You will find a visit to her shop well worth your while—for her prices are most reasonable and her workmanship excellent! Call her at Glendale 429-J if you'd like to know more of her work!

---

Rubbing the meat of a pecan nut into a scratch in a polished table will successfully conceal the scratch.

YOU'LL SURELY FIND HAPPINESS throughout the New Year in drinking that famous White Rose spring water from the INDEPENDENT ICE CO., 106 East California avenue. Their phone is Glendale 217—they'll deliver!

The Barton Bedtime Stories

THE ADVENTURE OF T HE WIDOW SQUIRREL

By JOHN BARTON

(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

Lots of things would never happen if—— But somehow they very often do. If the red dog hadn't been tied up tight he'd have been down to Dr. Muskrat's Pond with Tommy Peele's nice old barker, Watch, long before the widow squirrel came out of Nibble Rabbit's nest to see whether Chatter's treasure were really found. And if she hadn't wanted to be polite she never would have ventured in a strange hole.

It would be very queer for Chatter to hide his hoard underground. He might bury nuts and dig them up again, but that's different. Still, Chaik Jay would never think of looking here and it was Chaik, in particular, he was hiding it away from. She put in her head.

She Could Hear Barks Very, Very Near, and Shouts From Two Excited Little Boys.

"Wow, wow, wow!" barked a dog out in the broad field. It startled her, so she dodged all the way in. No, no! This was never Chatter's hole; it was too tight a fit for her. Some chipmunk must have made it. But she couldn't back out and she couldn't turn around. She just had to go on down to the nest at the bottom. My, but she felt nervous! What if the chipmunk should be there?

Poor little thing, she went creepy-crawly, creepy-crawley, down into the dark, getting scarder and scareder every minute. Under her feet she could feel the nutshells and grains of the chipmunk's hoard that the mice had been scattering about. If they hadn't been scared themselves why didn't they stay to eat up everything? That's what they do. And then——

Then she knew! Here was where the chipmunk's sleeping cellar widened out. But there wasn't any chipmunk—there was one of the scaly-folk coiled up in the bottom of it! Just a little striped snake she wouldn't have looked at twice if she'd seen it up in the light, all stiff as a twig from the cold. But she didn't stop to think; she whisked about and scrambled out.

She didn't even stop at the mouth of the hole. She could hear barks, very, very near, and shouts from two excited boys. But her eyes were so blind from the dark she couldn't see where she was going, and her wits were so dazed she couldn't think. She just ran, any-which-way. She felt a hot, excited breath rumble her fur. Something picked her up off the ground. It didn't hurt her; but she must have fainted from sheer fright. For that was the last she heard.

And there was plenty going on for her to listen to. My ears! What a racket!

NEXT STORY: THE WIDOW'S ADVENTURE ENDS WELL.

EXCELLENT BILL AT T.D.L. THEATER

Classy Numbers on Fine Vaudeville Offering Today

As a headliner for the special vaudeville road show which opens at the T. D. and L. theater today, Meiklejohn & Dunn have secured Louis London, the Orpheum star. Mr. London is famous from coast to coast for his golden voice and the act which he is presenting this year contains a wealth of pleasing numbers.

There are many so-called jugglers on the stage today, in fact, there are too many of them. Combining his ability to throw things about in a reckless manner and most important, his ability to catch them, with a sense of humor that is uncontrolable, Billy Lyle, has made for himself a name as vaudeville's most entertaining light. Mr. Lyle has many new tricks which will cause a great many laughs.

Mlle. Valeska Foss, premier danseuse, is presenting a colorful collection of unusual dances. In this act Miss Valeska performs the same dances which she did during her engagement at the midnight revue at the New York Roof Garden. Assisted by her capable partner Miss Foss offers an act which is really most beautiful.

Another act, especially selected because of its unusual merit, will complete the vaudeville portion on the bill and on the screen "Playthings of Destiny," in which beautiful Anita Stewart is starred. Supporting Miss Stewart in this fine photoplay will be seen Herbert Rawlinson, Walter McGrail, and the child wonder of the screen, little Richard Herdrick.

WILL TRY TO GET HAYWOOD'S FINE

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—District Attorney Charles F. Clyne today announced he would send an assistant to Salt Lake City to collect $10,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. William Haywood, wife of "Big Bill." Mrs. Haywood died in August and left a fair-sized estate, it is said. "Big Bill" is the only heir. Haywood was fined $10,000 by Judge Landis, but never paid it before his escape to Russia.

And the bottom of a cup of joy is seldom far from the top.

When self-interest comes on the stage sympathy steps down and out.

THIS is Mr. Happy Party's New Year's card. He wishes you one and all, big or small, short or tall, old or young, the happiest New Year that you've ever enjoyed.

LA CRESCENTA IN FAVOR OF BONDS

Christmas Party at Monte Vista Lodge on Thursday

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 30.—The Glendale union high school bond election was held at the La Crescenta school yesterday. The bonds were carried unanimously and all voted for the Lukens site on Verdugo road and Broadway.

The Christmas celebration at the Monte Vista lodge Thursday was one of the most enjoyable events of the home. Sixty children were brought out from Los Angeles for the day. There was a turkey dinner, a tree and gifts for all. Among the club women responsible for the success of this affair were Mesdames Howard Reynolds, F. E. Czerniski, Arthur Aiken, Glen Peck, S. B. Young of La Crescenta, Mrs. Robert Cooper of La Canada, Mrs. E. Richardson of Sunland, and Mrs. Wallace Morgan of Tujunga.

A most appreciative audience greeted members of the Madrigal club of Glendale last night at the school auditorium. The program was given by a quartette including Mrs. Helen Graman Cole, Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Albert M. Draper and Mrs. John Cotton. Mrs. J. A. Wright accompanist, and Mrs. R. D. Jones, reader. The program was splendidly arranged and artistically rendered.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Czerniski of Michigan avenue, are entertaining a number of friends from Torrance for the week-end. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brynes, Miss Elizabeth Brynes and Ted Brynes.

W. E. Weisey of Nevada, is the houseguest of his brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Glen C. Peck.

Arthur H. Aiken is building an attractive 8-room house on community avenue.

H. J. Krammer of Rosemont avenue, who has been quite ill, is much improved.

NEW ENDURANCE PLANE RECORD

One Driver Suffers Frozen Fingers From Zero Temperature

MINEOLA, L. I., Dec. 30.—America today established a new record for continuous airplane flight. The record, 26 hours 19 minutes 50 seconds (corrected and unofficial time) was made by Edward Stinson and Lloyd Bertaud in an S JL-6 all-metal monoplane limousine. The previous record, 24 hours 19 minutes 17 seconds, was held by France. It was established in June, 1920, with a Farman-Goliath plane.

Stinson and Bertaud started their flight yesterday morning. After their machine landed this morning, and they climbed stiffly out of the little cabin, three fingers of Stinson's left hand and one of his right were found to be frozen.

"It's good to be able to walk again," said Stinson. "I'm nearly frozen." He said his fingers were exposed when he removed his gloves to mend a broken oil feed. The thermometer in the driver's pit registered zero. Sleep was impossible. Of their supplies they drank only one bottle of coffee.

R. T. W. Class—The R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church will hold its next regular meeting Tuesday, January 3, at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Ray Bentley, 1361 North Columbus avenue.

WALTER BRINKOP'S HAT IN RING FOR STATE OFFICE

Former Army Officer Will Run for Office of State Treasurer

That Walter Brinkop, former army officer and prominent member of the American Legion in Los Angeles, is to seek the Republican nomination for the office of state treasurer was made known in a formal statement issued today.

Brinkop was busy today preparing for a state-wide tour in the interests of his campaign. He declared he expected his first trip would cover most of the important points in California. Questioned as to his candidacy, Brinkop made a brief statement. He said:

"I am taking this opportunity of announcing my candidacy for the Republican nomination for the office of state treasurer. If elected it shall be my utmost endeavor to render faithful, efficient and loyal service to all the people. I am not unmindful of the great honor and responsibility that attaches to public office, and I shall earnestly strive, if my candidacy meets with the approval of the voters of California, to measure up to the standard that our best citizenship demands."

Brinkop was born in Missouri in 1885. He has been a resident of California since 1910. He served as a captain, infantry, U. S. A., from May 12, 1917, to May 12, 1919; commanded machine gun company, 364th infantry, 91st division, in the St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne and Ypres-Lys offensives in France and Belgium; was awarded the Croix de Guerre of Belgium, recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross aand awarded citation by General Pershing for distinguished gallantry in action. Captain Brinkop was the first temporary commander and served two terms as commander of Los Angeles Post No. 8, of the American Legion. He has taken an active part in civic affairs, having recently served on the Los Angeles fire commission.

TWO MURDERERS GIVEN SENTENCE

One to Hang While the Other Will Go for Life Term

WAUKON, Iowa, Dec. 30.—Earl Throst, 19, and Peter Kleinow, 21, both convicted slayers of erstwhile sweethearts, faced visions of the gallows when they confronted Judge H. E. Taylor of district court here, to be sentenced.

A woman's mercy and abhorrence of capital punishment saved Kleinow. The judge, on strength of the slain girl's mother, gave Kleinow life imprisonment. But a woman's mercy will not save Throst from the death penalty. He was sentenced to hang March 9, 1923, and a woman will spring the death trap.

She is Mrs. Gunda Martingdale, sheriff of Alamakee county, who directed the man hunt which led to the arrest and conviction of Throst.

"If it is my duty to spring the trap, I'll do it," she said.

PAGES MISSING NOBODY CARED

CHICO, Cal., Dec. 30.—"Main Street" is being widely perused by "Main street." Which is to say that the very people who are satirized by Sinclair Lewis are among the most avid and oblivious consumers of the book. So says Miss Huntington, county librarian, who has revealed that a defective volume of "Main Street," with two chapters missing, circulated eight times before the omission was detected. Yet Main street always says "it liked the book SO much," according to Miss Huntington.

Postpone Meet—The meeting of the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club was postponed until next week. It will then be entertained by Mrs. Claud G. Putnam.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home, is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.—Advertisement.

MARY ANN

When I stand before the windows where the cookies are and pies,
And the tarts and buns and cream-puffs, and look with hungry eyes;
When I see the folks go shopping and come fort with cakes and sweets
And the goodies that the modern tongue ha classified as "eats;"
Then my memory goes backward in its own de lightful way
To the old cook stove and kitchen and the smell of baking day,
When a girl stood cutting cookies with a baking powder can,
And trimming pans of pie-crust—and her nam was Mary Ann.

Mary Ann served in the kitchen and she served at table too,
And she made such pies and goodies as Lucullus never knew.
She had flour up to her elbows and her face was warm and red,
As she rolled and cut out cookies and she kneaded loaves of bread.
She could make a pan of doughnuts such as never since I've known,
She could bake a lemon pie for which a king would trade his throne,
And if you had seen the cookies that were browning in her pan!
Of the species known as jewel was our old girl, Mary Ann.

She made gingerbread and pound-cake and cream puffs and currant bun
And old fashioned apple dumplings, crisp and brown and sugary ones;
Cakes with cinnamon and citron, layer cakes and plain and iced,
Cookies round and square and thick and thin and sugared ones an spiced.
Coffee cake, the kind you dream of when you hark to boyhood's days;
Gems and puffs and tarts and drops and buns done in a dozen ways;
But when I stop at the window of the shop the things to scan
I wonder if they haven't syndicated Mary Ann.

Mary Ann! We used to love her and to wheedle her and beg!
You should see her whirl a stirring spoon and watch her beat an egg!
She was warm and red and floury but was big of heart and soul,
And when she had made cake-batter she might let you lick the bowl.
She's been gone but not forgotten for some near-on-thirty years,
But the spicy smells of baking—how they almost bring the tears
For the days long gone, as she is—won't you tell me, if you can,
Does there somewhere on this planet still exist a Mary Ann?

WOOD CARVED IN MANY ODD SHAPES

Prehistoric Animals in Window of First National Bank

Oh! a wonderful bird is the Pelican,
His beak can hold more than his belly-can—
He holds enough in his beak to last him a week,
I really don't see how—the bird gets away with it.

That's the pelican and he is one of the fowl life of America today, but the poor pelican was a mere piker when compared with the birds and beasts of prehistoric days as illustrated by a seat of small models carved in wood by Dr. F. C. Clark of the Southern California academy of science on display in the windows of the First National bank here.

First on the list is the Slegosurus (sweet name). This is some animal according to statistics. In its palmy days it roamed about America eating grass and herbs. He, she or it weighed in the neighborhood of six tons and the brain of he, she or it weighed approximately two and one-half ounces. That's some ratio, isn't it? The strange part about this animal is the fact that there are still a few descendants in existance. The only difference is the fact that instead of a 20-foot monster in the olden days it has become civilized into an animal averaging five to five and a half feet tall and passes itself off on an unsuspecting public as a man, whenever possible.

Then comes the trygannosarus rex, king of the tyrant lizards, according to Dr. Clark. This reptile was common in America several thousand years ago. The pleranodon larpodu was another one of the old birds that would create considerable excitement were it to fly over Glendale and alight on a telephone pole. The pleranodon measured from tip to tip, about 20 feet and resembled an airplane when flying.

These birds and beasts are only a few that are reproduced in miniature in the windows of the bank and a few minutes spent studying the display in a liberal education in the prehistoric life of America.

SHREWDNESS WAS SHOWN BY BURCH

State Contends Defendant Was Never Insane

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—A strong impeachment of the opinions expressed by Dr. Charles Allen and other alienists that Arthur C. Burch is insane was established today by District Attorney Woolwine, when he read a statement made by the accused man after his arrest for the murder of John Belton Kennedy.

Burch, brought back from Las Vegas, Nev., was closely questioned by Deputy District Attorney Asa Keyes. His answers were recorded in shorthand. They showed unusual shrewdness.

When asked to give an account of his movements in Los Angeles during the two weeks he was here, and particularly on the night of August 5, Burch replied:

"I don't care to make any statement at the present time. You appreciate the situation—I have no counsel, no one to advise me in the matter. If I have an opportunity to consult with counsel, I know without question the whole thing will be cleared up."

"If you have nothing to conceal, there is no reason why you should not clear it up now," Keyes said, according to the record.

"I prefer to go over it with my counsel first," Burch replied.

Keyes asked a series of questions, touching upon apparently minor points. Burch consistently refused to answer any of them. He finally said:

"If you'll permit me to get in touch with a proper attorney here, we'll lay the cards on the table. Otherwise, I'll keep my mouth shut and it's impossible for you to make me talk."

TAX REDUCTION TO AID WORKERS TO START JAN. 1

Changes in Luxury Taxes to Benefit Consumer Now

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Every man, woman and child in the United States will start off the New Year with a direct saving of $7 in federal taxes, which, during the year, will expand to four times that sum.

Under the new revenue act, which becomes effective January 1, $700,000,000 in taxes is chopped from the budget. But experts of the treasury department today stated that four times that figure will accrue to the taxpayers due to the peculiar operation of the economic law.

Many of the changes in the revenue act will not benefit certain classes of taxpayers until 1923. But the average wage-earner will effect an immediate saving in his income as well as in other taxes. Under the new act the head of a family is exempt up to $2500 instead of $2000 and $400 for every dependent instead of $200. This reduction is retroactive to incomes during this year.

Other changes effective January 1 are:

Repeal of the 8 per cent government tax on passenger and Pullman fares, 3 per cent on freight rates, express and parcel post packages.

Elimination of the "nuisance" taxes, such as the pennies paid at a soda fountain, on cosmetics and like taxes.

Repeal of the insurance taxes.

Reduction of taxes on candy, cereal beverages and works of art.

Changes in luxury taxes beneficial to the consumer.

The repeal of the excess profits taxes, reduction in the surtax rates and the reduced corporation income tax, made effective January 1, 1922, will not benefit this class of taxpayers until 1923.

Treasury officials estimated federal collections for the fiscal year of 1922 (up to June 30, 1922) would total $3,214,000,000; for the fiscal year of 1923, $2,611,000,000, and the calendar year of 1923, $2,550,000,000.

LEGION NOTES

Veterans' Bureau limiting the time for the reinstatement of war risk insurance by ex-service men to December 31, have been amended so that the time of reinstatement is extended to March 4, 1926. This type of insurance may be reinstated any time to March 4, 1926, provided the disabled ex-service man is not totally and permanently disabled, and can submit a report of a complete medical examination to show that he is not suffering from any disability other than that contracted in service.

He also will be required to pay up all past due monthly premiums which would have become payable if the insurance had not lapsed, together with interest at the rate of five percent per annum compounded annually on each premium from the due date thereof.

Any ex-service man who is interested in reinstating war risk insurance may secure a reinstatement blank or further information by applying to the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, 322 Pacific Mutual Bldg., Los Angeles.

HUTCHINSON HOME SHROUDED IN GLOOM

This has been a sad holiday season for Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson for the reason that a dearly beloved aunt of Mr. Hutchinson, Mrs. Paddock, the last of his family, is lying at the point of death. She has been like a mother to Mrs. Hutchinson, of whom she has been a neighbor for many years, and now that her last hours haave come, she desires the constant presence of Mrs. Hutchinson at her bedside. Because of this sad state of affairs no attempt at a Christmas celebration was made in the Hutchinson home.
